The Public Service Commission received vesterday from the office of the Corporation Counsel an opinion to the effect that while the contracts for the building of the Fourth avenue (Brooklyn) subway were correct in form, approval of the contract could not be made because the city apparently hadn't the money to carry out the work. J. J. HILL SAYS WAIT A BIT.

He Isn't Prophesying Smooth Things Just

) et About Better Business. James J. Hill was quoted yesterday as saying in regard to the business situation that while he could not permit himself to be tan optimistic he was trying not to be pessin stir. Mr. Hill supplemented this cryptic unterance as follows: *The general recovery in business which has been predicted has not yet manifested uself to any considerable degree, and it is respected that it should. The about ever hight, they are the result of ment months, and a revival will the way of earnings. They the way of earnings. They saving right along Wait until spring is here and they are cry will be probably be 'Wait till winter.'

GOSSIP OF WALL STREET.

James J. Hill in an interview given out esterday said that he is trying not to be pessimistic and gave several reasons why he cannot feel optimistic, strongly asserting his belief that as the causes which produced the present condition of affairs did not arise over night neither will the return of prosperity be as sudden as some ratiroad people would have the public imagine. The traders tried to make market capital out of this expression of opinion. As a rule they regarded it as hearish in tone, although a few of them argued that there was nothing in it which was particularly depressing. Brokers who had seen Mr. Hill since his return to New York said that in talking to them personally he had not said anything that could be regarded as discouraging, but all statements of this kind were deprived of whatever reassuring effect they might otherwise have had when it was recalled that avowedly Mr. Hill was "trying not to be peasimistic." "With Hill," renot to be peasimistic." marked an old timer, "trying is succeeding. even in putting a good face on things that would discourage other people."

"Now the way that Hill interview strikes me," said a well known trader, "is this: It to indorse my approval thereon is not bullish on the market and it is not bearish to any particular extent. We have had a substantial advance in prices based largely on the belief that there was a great substantial improvement in business condiions. The latter, however, has hardly been relatively as rapid as the former. The market will now have to wait-how long will epend on the speed with which general business catches up. If the market instead of waiting should decline, then the line o aprovement in business trending upward and the line of security prices trending downward would soon cross and the bargain hunter rould have another opportunity to secure stocks and would probably grasp it withi more confidence than he has shown at any time in a year or more."

Traders who professed to see something extremely pessimistic in Mr. Hill's remarks had a great deal to say about the significance of the promulgation of such views at a time when Union Pacific was about to enter the market for perhaps as much as $50,000,000 new capital. These operators contended that between Mr. Hill and Mr. Harringan there was no brotherly love worth mention and that the head of the Hill system would hardly feel grieved if the financial plan or the leading road in the Harriman system men with only a qualified success.

Many of those who could not be restrained from buying Yukon Gold on Saturday tried to sell the stock vesterday, but found their task was not as easy as they had expected. It was much easier to buy the stock than to spll it, and many holders were questioning whether it was not they themselves that were "cheap" instead of the shares they had inve sted in.

The latest rumor about Pennsylvania financing is that the company will enter the money market for $35,000,000 within thirty

If appearances could be depended upon the selling of American Smelting and Refining was of the best quality. Most of the traders thought it was as good as it appeared to be and sold some of the stock short to profit by its decline. few, however, arguing that i the selling was really as i portint as it ap eared to be sine effort would ave been made to conceal its significance, bought on the reaction, but found little room for profit on their operations.

It depends very much on the sentiment of the moment whether an item of news stimulates buying or selling or whether the apparent character of the transactions induces the traders to work for an advance or for a decline. It was because the sentiment was bearish that the apparently good selling of American Smelting attracted a considerable following for that side. Itad the sentiment been cheerful it might have been argued that the apparently good selling was intended to facilitate accumulation and the traders, as a rule, would have been disposed to keep clear of the bear side. Advantage is sometimes taken of this habit of the traders to suspect what they see, and the most significant operations are at times conducted in the most open way, the operators taking an imaginary trap will step into a real one. Similarly, sentiment determines the effect of news, for often matters of real importance are followed by movements the reverse of what might naturally be expected, the Street arguing that the matter had been discounted or that in some way it differed from the ordinary idea of it. Even dividend reductions may be followed by advances in the market, because the directors acted conservatively in conserving the resources of the company which mature on April 8 brought a recurrence of the rumor of a hitch in the negotiations for the financing of the road's requirements and not alone the stocks of this company but the general market suffered in consequence. The Erie directors me t in the afternoon, but adjourned to Thursday next without completing the business for which they had been called together.

At about 2 o'clock the market was heavy and the Street was full of rumors of an unfavorable kind. The traders were committed to the bear side and many of them were noisily predicting that a sharp break would occur before the close. Hardly any one on the floor seemed to expect a rally, when certain brokers supposed to represent the Harriman interest went into the Union Pacific crowd and began to bid up the price of that stock, following this action by bidding for other stocks at various points on the floor. Then the traders remembered that E. H. Harriman is a director of the Erie Railroad and suddenly the idea struck them that the new buying in the market was based on knowledge that the plan of providing for the financial needs of this road had been approved by the board. Lively covering of shorts ensued and brokers who watched what was going on without taking any active part in it expressed the opinion that this was the sole object of the so-called Harriman buying. The bull tip on Union Pacific predicted a rise to 131, but did not make good. It was based on a rumor that a speculator was short to the extent of 60,000 shares and that he could be forced to cover at the figure named. As to whether he covered a part of his alleged line during the day or added to it by further short sales rumor was discreetly silent after

He Prefers to Retire From the Case. ALBANY, March 39.-Judge Charles Andrews of Syracuse, former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, who was appointed by Gov. Hughes as commissioner to take the testimony in the matter of the charges against District Attorney Jerome which were preferred by William F. King and the minority committee of Metropolitan Street Railway stockholders, to-day sent his resignation to Gov. Hughes. Judge Andrews says he had made his preparations for a trip abroad in June and had no idea when he accepted the Governor's designation that the hearings on the Jerome charges would be likely to be as protracted as they promise. As he finds he could not get through with the case without abandoning his trip Judge Andrews prefers to sever his connection with the case now before getting into it

Gov. Hughes greatly regretted the resignation of Judge Andrews. He will appoint another commissioner as soon as he reaches a decision on the matter. Judge Andrews's letter to the Governor follows:

My DEAR GOVERNOR: I was, as you know, eluctant to accept the appointment of comnissioner in the Jerome investigation with which you honored me. I also stated in my interview with you that I had arranged to go abroad in June. When I accepted the appointment I did not appreciate the amount of ime and labor involved in hearing the case. The investigation was commenced on Thursday, March 26. But one of the twenty-three charges has so far been the subject of inquiry, and more than 300 typs written pages of testimony, exclusive of exhibits, have been taken and the evidence for the defence on this charge has not been entered upon.

It seems probable, in view of the numerous larges to be investigated and the necessary delays which will occur, that the investigation will not be completed in time to enable me to prepare my report before I leave home in dune. Under the circumstances I think I ought to resign my office of commissioner and I therefore send you my resignation.

Permit me to thank you for the expression. of confidence implied in my appointment and to express my regret that circumstances prevent my continuing to discharge the duty con-I am, my dear Governor, with sentiments of the highest respect, yours very

T. F. RYAN BEFORE GRAND JURY. His Examination Finished Julian's Testimony Again Declared to Be False.

Thomas F. Ryan was a witness before the special county Grand Jury for three hours yesterday and was questioned by District Attorney Jerome about the affairs of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company. It is understood that Mr. Ryan was examined principally about the Wall and Cortlandt Street Ferries, a so-called paper railroad, and the Metropolitan Securities Company. His examination was finished yesterday,

As to Louis P. Julian's testimony at the Jerome hearing concerning a contribution of $15,000 by the Metropolitan to secure the nomination of Vernon M. Davis to the Supreme Court bench Mr. Ryan said to the reporters that so far as it referred to him the testimony was false and that subpernaed he would deny it on the stand.
